THE HUSSARS DREW A CROWD IN THE RAIN.

The heavy rain last night did not prevent a good attendance at the high school auditorium to hear the Hussars. This splendid organization more than pleased the audience with their novel and entertaining program. There was not a dull moment from the opening number to the close and the applause was frequent and emphatic. If the night had been favorable the attendance would have been equal to the value of the number, but the result is a disappointment to the management of the lyceum course of which this was the opening attraction.

However, the four remaining numbers will be given as advertised and the sale of season tickets will be continued for another month. The next number will be Senator Frank J. Cannon of Utah on Dec. 4th. He gives a lecture of more than usual interest. On Jan. 22nd, will appear the Dunbar singing orchestra, which is composed of six talented young women, and their program is equally as popular as that of the Hussars. The last two numbers of the course are Emma Dee Randle and Alton Packard. All of the remaining numbers would cost separately as much as $1.00 each.

Those who bought single admission tickets, whether they used them last night or not, may secure season tickets good for the rest of the course, by paying the difference in price. This means that if you paid 50 cents for a single ticket you can get a season ticket for a dollar.
